

Edward Odell
IAOP Councillor for Europe
Head of Department of Oral Pathology
King's College London at Guy's and St Thomas' NHS Foundation Trust.

Edward Odell studied dentistry at The London Hospital Medical College Dental School and undertook a PhD on neutrophil function at University College London. He is a diagnostic pathologist with research interest in molecular, diagnostic and predictive aspects of oral premalignancy and cancer and also of fibro-osseous disease. He is the author of several textbooks.